WANT A CHANGE IN THE STATE TAX SYSTEM

It Will Afford One of the Principal Subjects Before the Constitutional Convention

Some of the New Hampshire assessors who have been appraising taxable bonds and other intangibles at less than their actual value, with the feeling that such a course was no more than just and equitable for the holders, are worrying over the ruling of the state tax commission, that bonds must be taxed on their actual market value, and predict that their cities will lose heavily under the new ruling for the reason that people who now own taxable bonds will dispose of them and invest their capital in non-taxable securities, of which there is an abundance on the market. This is because the taxes paid upon bonds taxed at their market value eat up so large a portion of the interest received upon them that the investment is less profitable than investments in non-taxable securities.

The matter is attracting much attention throughout the state and is increasing the interest in the agitation for a change in the tax system.

BELIEVE THAT FRALEY WAS AFTER DEPARTMENT SECRETS

He Will Face Court Martial on Three Serious Charges Today

Private Fraley, U. S. M. C., was arraigned before a court martial board at the navy yard today on five charges based upon his alleged entry at night into the steam engineering office and the alleged larceny of money. While it is of the opinion that the alleged break was committed with the purpose of ascertaining department secrets contained in valuable papers stored away, the theft of money will be the only charge in that respect placed in the accusation against Fraley.

The alleged break into the steam engineering office in the heart of the navy yard was committed nearly a month ago. Entrance to the building was gained by forcing a window. The door to the private office of Capt. C. E. Bartlett, U. S. N., chief engineering officer of the navy yard, was forced by main strength. In the morning following the break, the desk of Captain Bartlett was found to have been looted.

Private Fraley composed the guard outside the office the night of the break. He was searched the following day at the marine barracks and among his effects was found some old coin that disappeared from Captain Bartlett's desk. It is alleged. Fraley all the time maintained his protesting of innocence.

Fraley was previously an orderly to the commandant of the yard and was familiar with the situation in the engineering office. It is now said in naval circles that the commandant has lost money from his desk in the past but that report is unconfirmed. In addition to breaking and entering and to larceny, Fraley will be arraigned before the court martial board on the charge of robbery, disorderly conduct and leaving his post while on duty.

AFTER TEN YEARS BLIND BOY'S SIGHT RESTORED

Physicians Say Restoration of Sight Not the Handwork of Man

When Karl Chick, the 17 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Chick, of Kittery arose from his bed recently in the home of his parents, the affliction of blindness that had prevailed in his left eye more than ten years and disappeared and the eye regained its formerly normal sight. In the opinion of skilled surgeons and eye specialists who were immediately called to treat young Chick, there is no indication that the old condition of blindness will be restored. The mysterious cure is permanent, the physicians say.

Chick became blind when 7 years old, while playing at his home, the eyeball was pierced with a silver of wood. Blindness immediately struck out the sight of the eye. Skilled eye specialists were then unable to cause the sight of the eye to be restored. Meanwhile the boy studied at school and recently was graduated from Traub academy.

Upon retiring for rest there was no apparent change in the condition of his eye. When he awoke a soft moist deposit had formed upon his cheek below the eye and he was surprised that he had a wider range of vision. The covering of his right eye informed him that he had really recovered the sight of his damaged eye. Physicians say that the restoration of sight in this instance was not the handwork of man.

BADLY BURNED ABOUT THE FACE AND HANDS

Gregg was Cleaning His Clothes When Gasoline Ignited

Fred Gregg an iron worker at the navy yard was badly burned about the face and hands at his home on Hill street on Saturday night. Queer circumstances led up to the accident. Mr. Gregg was engaged in cleaning his clothes with gasoline and had set a bottle of the inflammable liquid on a table near some matches. While working on the clothing he accidentally tipped over the bottle which fell on the matches causing the same to ignite. The bottle exploded and the table and clothing on which he was at work were soon in a lively blaze. Gregg at the time had on scant clothing, but he gave the flames a lively battle to save the house taking fire.

THE WHITE MOUNTAIN RESERVE.

In another fortnight a year will have elapsed since President Taft signed the Weeks act for the purchase of national forests at the headwaters of navigable streams. The interest in its application in this section centers largely upon the preservation of the White Mountains forests of New Hampshire, with the purchase of Crawford Notch, the natural gateway to that region, as the initial and most urgent step to take. A history of the movement that has led up to the present status, with an outline of existing conditions and future prospects, is presented in the tenth annual report of the Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests, just issued. This association has been behind every effort to check the divestment of the forests and to regulate tree cutting so as to check the rapid exhaustion toward which it has hitherto been tending.

A review of the ten years in which the society has been at work constitutes a feature of the report. It began with forty members and now has nearly sixteen hundred, representing every section and almost every state in the country. What has been accomplished in these ten years gives it an optimistic view of the future, and it ventures to believe it possible that the time is not far distant "when the annual harvest of timber in New Hampshire will not exceed the annual growth." Among the results accomplished with the society's active aid have been the reorganization of the forestry commission, the enactment of the Weeks bill, the movement to purchase Crawford Notch, the acquisition of strategically located forest areas and the general improvement of woodlands throughout the state.

Among the things for which it is still working is the enlargement of the forest areas held by the state government, cooperation with Federal officials in the purchase of the National Forest in the White Mountains, and the establishment of an equitable system of forests taxation. But the National Forest idea is the feature that commands the widest interest outside the state. The delays in the acquisition of the Crawford Notch have been published and commented on from time to time, among them being defects in the bill passed by the legislature with the purpose of hastening action. But the review of the situation by the Supreme court of the state resulted in a decision that the state could take by eminent domain any lands in the Crawford Notch that it could pay for by moneys not otherwise appropriated.

There was not enough of such money to buy the whole of the Notch. But progress is being made. The Society has assurances from the Geological Survey that it hopes to make a favorable report on the White Mountains at an early date. The government is having some difficulty in arranging prices with a few of the owners who possess important tracts, but the National Forest Reservation Commission is urged to proceed under eminent domain, if necessary. That can doubtless be done, as the United States Attorney General has construed "purchase by eminent domain, if necessary." That may be

Al Palzer, Best of White Hopes, Is Being Wisely Handled

New York, Feb. 19.—Al Palzer, the most promising of the white hopes will not be pitted against Jack Johnson for a year or two. Promoters in this city have made several offers to have Palzer meet Johnson, but they all have been turned down. In talking about his change recently Manager O'Rourke said: "Palzer is a kid, and he needs experience. I want to meet Jim Flynn and Carl Morris before he even thinks of a match with the big negro. When I send Palzer against Johnson you can bet he will win." If Palzer meets and gets away with Flynn there will be excitement galore. O'Rourke's find will be regarded as the "logical opponent" of Johnson, and then it will be up to O'Rourke to exercise restraint. He will need to remember more than ever that Palzer "is only a kid" and steer him clear of the breakers.

HORSE TAILS.

We Import Them From All Over the World and Also Export Them.

An item that seemed odd in the manifest of a steamer lately arrived from Japanese and Chinese ports was this in the list of her cargo from Tsushin: Fifty-five cases of horse tails.

As a matter of fact, horse tails or the hair thereof are a common article of importation into this country from China and from pretty much every other country on earth. The American market gets large quantities of them from China, but more from Russia, and horse tails are imported here from every other European country and from South America, from Australia, from all round the world. On the other hand, there are more or less American horse tails exported.

From various causes the supply of horse tails, like that of anything else, may in one country and another vary from year to year, and there may be years when the world's supply is short and years when it is plentiful, with corresponding changes in the range of prices. Horse tails have sold as low as 20 cents a pound, and they have sold for as much as $2. If stocks are scarce and high in London and ample at lower prices here New York importers ship horse tails to London. In the contrary circumstances London importers might ship horse tails here.

Horse tail hairs are sorted for length and colors, and they are used either alone or mixed with other fibers in the manufacture of various sorts of brushes and mixed with other materials in the manufacture of haircloth.—New York Sun.

A VERSE FOR THE BEGGAR.

Victor Hugo's Response to the Old Blind Soldier's Appeal.

A Frenchman, writing recently upon "The Mendicants of Paris," recalls a pretty anecdote of Victor Hugo and a blind beggar. The beggar was an old soldier, very feeble and quite sightless, who was led every day by his little granddaughter to a certain street corner, where he waited patiently for such scanty arms as the hurrying public might drop into a small box that hung from his neck.

One day a group of gentlemen halted near him, chatting, and he heard the name by which they called the one who lingered longest. Reaching forward as he, too, was about to go, he caught him by the coat.

"What do you want, my good man?" asked the gentleman. "I have already given you 2 sous."

"Yes, monsieur, and I have thanked you," replied the veteran. "It is something else that I want."

"What is it?"

"Verses."

"You shall have them," said the gentleman, and he kept his word. The next day the blind soldier bore on his breast a placard with a stanza to which was appended the name of Victor Hugo, and the alms in the box were quadrupled. The lines may be thus translated:

Like Helicorus and like Homer blind,
Led by a young child on his pathway dies.

The hand that aids his need, pitying and kind,
He will not see, but God will see for him.

How One Word Was Born.

The two friends had been dining on divers and sundry strange dishes at the Colars of Lebanon cafe, in the Syrian quarter of New York. They were drinking their coffee, thick with coal black grounds, and wondering whether they really enjoyed it, when Smithers suddenly cried out:

"Fatung! Fatung!"

The waiter hurried away and came back presently bringing an ordinary corkscrew.

"I was just testing," said Smithers to his companion, "the truth of the story that the first corkscrew seen in Beirut was brought there by a Yankee. It was a patented American contraption, and the Syrians were amazed at its convenience. They spelled out on its mystic words, 'Pat. Aug. '70,' and took that to be the name of the implement. Now, I believe the story that fatung is its name all over the Levant."—New York Sun.

The First Quarantine.

From all accounts the custom of quarantining originated in Venice somewhere about the beginning of the twelfth century. All merchants and others coming from the eastern countries were obliged to remain in the house of St. Lazarus for a period of forty days before they were admitted into the city. Taking the idea from Venice, other European cities, especially port towns, instituted quarantine during seasons of plague, and well down into modern times most nations adopted the system, applying it when it was deemed necessary.

STATE ENGINEER HILL RESIGNS

Letter Was Sent to Gov. Bass February 6

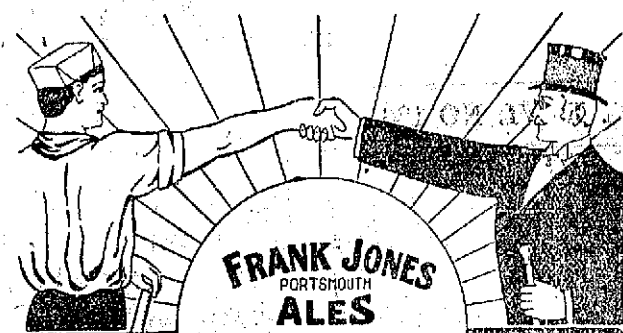

Concord, Feb. 17.—State Highway Engineer Harry C. Hill stated today that he sent his resignation to Governor Kass by formal letter Feb. 6, and had expected action would be taken upon it at the regular meeting of the government council, which was not done. Mr. Hill stated that he has under consideration three offers of positions but has not finally decided which he will accept. The year for which he was employed by the governor and council does not expire until March 1, next.

Mr. Hill has been connected with the department ever since it was organized in 1905, first as chief clerk under State Highway Engineer Dean, and then was made engineer by Governor Quincy and council when Mr. Dean resigned to accept a position with the Massachusetts board. Because of that service no one is so familiar with the details and history of the highway work on the part of the state as he, information that is most valuable under the changeable law that has been in responsible charge of a state department that has the expenditure of more public money than any other since it came into full swing.

A LONG CHAIN.

U. S. Postage Stamps of 1911 Would Reach Fully 18,000 Miles.

A statistician has figured out that if all the stamps issued by the government during the past fiscal year were collected and laid end to end they would form a chain of 18,000 miles long, about equal to the distance from New York to the Philippines. The number was 10,001,439,768, representing a face value of $180,957,385. Of the whole number, 5,130,249,012 were two cent stamps and 3,798,961,036 were one cent stamps. But one 30-cent stamp was issued.

MILL OWNERS REFUSE TO GRANT DEMAND OF STRIKERS

Claim That Times Do Not Warrant It --Strike Will Be Prolonged.

Lawrence, Feb. 18.—More and more remote seems the probability that the striking textile workers will be able to secure the advance in wages and other concessions for which they have been contending for more than five weeks now.

Today it became known that the sub-committee of the Central Labor Union which had been in conference with the mill representatives twice this week had been told that no concessions would be made to the strikers at this time.

The reason given by the mill agents, according to men who served on sub-committees which were made up of former employees of the Arlington and Pacific mills, are in effect, that business conditions at present would not permit of any increase in the wages paid to employees; that the uncertainty of Congressional action in connection with the tariff is another reason, and finally that there was no likelihood of any settlement of the questions at issue through the medium either of the A. F. of L. or the I. W. O.

These subcommittees were informed, however, that if the operatives returned to work the mill agents would, when the economic conditions warranted such action, voluntarily grant an increase.

Situations Still Open.

The following notice, signed by the different agents, was posted at the American Woolen Company's mills yesterday:

"To our former employees: Our mills are open to those who desire to return to work."

"There are no restrictions barring the way; no discrimination of any kind against any one."

"We hold no prejudices, no rancor and no bitterness toward any of our former employees."

"We welcome back those who desire to come; we will hold open for them for a reasonable time their former situations, and we desire to assure them of our sincere desire for their welfare and our willingness at all times, as in the past, to do our part toward complete harmony and friendship between our employees and ourselves."

While nothing official has been issued by other mills in connection with this particular feature, it appears that the above exactly expresses the feeling and the disposition of the other agents.

Will Prolong Struggle.

It is, therefore, not unreasonable to assume that if the strikers insist upon an increase of wages as a condition of their returning to work, the strike is going to be somewhat prolonged, for evidently the last word has been said by the manufacturers. Late this afternoon James R. Menzie, who has had to do with the organization of these sub-committees, and who is chairman of the general committee of the C. L. U. said:

"Reports that have been generally published in the afternoon papers, and which stated that the final answer from the mill agents had been received by the general committee of the C. L. U. are incorrect, so far as the general committee knows. While the corporations appear to be somewhat slow the general committee has not abandoned the delegations from the different nationalities to the general strike committee are quite enthusiastic in their reports as to the determination of those they represent not to yield until their demands have been acceded to, a look at the strikers as they appear on the street does not bear this out.

It is quite apparent from their demeanor that their long fight has dampened their ardor and they are not today so aggressive and so confident as they were even a week ago.

Meetings are held regularly, however, and are well attended. The speakers urge the strikers to stick together, assuring them that if they but do so they will win.

They listen to these encouraging words, but undoubtedly are wondering how long they will have to stick.

SOCIAL AT ELKS' HOME.

There will be a Washington birthday social at the Elks' Home on Thursday evening, with cards and dancing.

Portsmouth people are fast learning that The Herald publishes all the local happenings many hours ahead of other local evening papers.

PAUL JONES CLUB HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET

The annual banquet of the Paul Jones Club, was held at the Hotel Rockingham on Saturday evening, and the Helen Seaver Quilling party was the guest of the chapter. Conspicuous among the guests was the grocerman Murdock of Kansas, who had been present, but at the last minute he was forced to remain in Washington and wired his regrets.

Secretary George A. Wood was the toastmaster and the speakers were: Mr. Byron Pratt of Boston, who spoke on "Mass Against the Men"; Mr. John Scales of Dover spoke on "The Portsmouth Navy Yard," and Mrs. F. S. Towle, president of the Quilling party, responded to the toast to the ladies.

BITS OF SPORT

Danny Morgan is considering a proposition to take his protégé, K. O. Brown to Paris. The National Sporting Club of Paris has offered a $7500 guarantee to Brown to meet an unknown French lightweight. Can't blame the Americans for going to Paris, when a boxer of Brown's caliber is offered such a purse.

The advance guard of the big league ball clubs are now hitting the trail for Hot Springs and several major league players are now there. In a short while all the big leaguers will be heading it south and then the fan will be treated to stories from the training camp about his favorites. Well it will be some time yet before the ball players up in this section of the country can get out doors, but the big leaguers will not care how much snow or cold is handed out to the people in New England, as they will escape it.

Facky McFarland is out with a statement regarding the alleged case of cold feet on his part, when he refused to meet Ernie at Philadelphia a few days ago. He says: "Afraid to fight? Cold feet attack? Why, that is all bunk. Just because I wouldn't go into the ring against Ernie when I had one eye half closed, they say I am a coward. My argument is that it is good sense. I figure it is always best to have a kick coming before a bout than an excuse afterward. I always make it a point to be right before I go into the ring. That's where my work counts. If I am not right, I don't fight. I am not so hard up that I have to sacrifice my record for a losing end. When I get to that stage I will be ready to quit."

From latest reports, George Stovall, ex-manager and first baseman of the Cleveland club, has been traded to St. Louis Browns for Lefty George.

The Boston Nationals should be benefited by the trade of Mike Donlin for Vincent Campbell of Pittsburgh. The Pirate is a young fellow who stings the ball hard and is very fast both in the field and on the paths. Donlin has been in the big league for several seasons and cannot last much longer in fast company, while Campbell has just about got over the breaking in process and should come faster for the next couple of seasons. Donlin would have been in the Boston lineup but for the fact that he refused to sign a contract and that at the sum of $5000 for his year's work, Mike has long had ambitions to become a manager and was peeved when John Kling was chosen as the successor of Fred Tenney. "Mike" did not disguise his feeling any, and rather than have any dissatisfied player on his club payroll the management of the Boston team decided to dispose of actor player. Mike probably knew that his hold-out would get him transferred and is undoubtedly glad to get away from the Boston club.

LUNCHEON AT THE ROCKINGHAM.

Mr. George A. Wood gave a luncheon on Saturday noon at the Hotel Rockingham to a party of friends. It was to have been to meet Congressman Murdock of Kansas, but at the last minute he wired that he was delayed and could not get here. The luncheon was a very pleasant occasion and excellently served by Landlord Patten.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1912.

An English syndicate is trying to combine between 12 and 20 of largest printing establishments in eastern sections of United States. Transaction involves more than $5,000,000 and already five big New York plants have signed or agreed to sign options.

Chairman Doherty of the committee representing the Boston & Maine conductors, trainmen and yardmen declares that recently changed service conditions have disturbed living conditions so that many employees have been "driven away, resulting in the breaking up of their homes." The committee is considering presentation of new schedules. New Haven's engineers have demanded wage increases based on engine capacity.

This is the way they do things down in Texas. Recently a judge who was presiding over a session of police court was called a liar by an individual in the court. The judge said he would have to adjourn the court long enough to thrash the man who applied the epithet. It required about five minutes to do the job and then he resumed the session, fined himself for fighting and went on with the trial that had been interrupted. That was certainly a case of summary punishment for contempt of court.

In our ice-free harbor at present are the five masted steamer "Grace A. Martin," the four masted "Rebecca M. Wallis," and "Sarah and Lucy," and the two masted, "Sadie A. Kimball." The captains of all these vessels are anxious enough to sail for their destinations, east and west, for freight, and especially coal freights, have taken an alluring jump, but here they remain day after day, simply because their skippers realize that they are in a safe harbor, and the only one north of the Chesapeake where there is no possibility of their being cut through, swept ashore, or otherwise harassed by great fields of drifting ice. Who can blame them? They know when they are well off, and act accordingly. Here are actual facts which Mr. Secretary Meyer might put in his pipe and smoke to much advantage.

The question of making out inventory blanks is troubling many New Hampshire people about this time, and the trouble is not expected to grow less until about the middle of April, at which time it may be expected to be succeeded by a period of apprehension. The law says: "The selection shall appraise all taxable property at its full and true value in money as they would appraise the same in payment of a just debt due from a solvent debtor, and shall receive and consider all evidence that may be submitted to them relative to the value of shares in corporation and other property, the value of which cannot be determined by personal examination." This makes the matter about as plain as English can make it. "Full and true value in money." Not what a piece of property is worth to you, but what it is actually worth in cash. Many a man could not sell his home for from one to many thousands of dollars of its actual cash value. This is shown in many residences in our city where the owners have died and their estates have been sold and where they have moved away and wished to dispose of their homes. Sometimes they have been from twenty-five to fifty per cent and in some instances more than that—Franklin Journal-Transcript.

HOW ISSUES ARE BORN.

A short time before La Follette's booklet expired he was scheduled to make a speech in a town in Wisconsin. This town is served by two railroads, but the senator did not know this. He alighted at one of the stations and was driven to the hotel. He had an engagement to speak at a nearby town the next afternoon. He then jumped into a cab and directed the caddy to drive to the station at which he had arrived the day before. The train he should have taken left from the other station. He arrived at the station just in time to see a train pulling out. Seizing his bag, he dashed for the rear platform, brushing aside station attendants, etc., who endeavored to bar his way. When the conductor came round he was told he was on the wrong train and would have to alight at the next stop and wait four hours for a Grand Trunk train. He missed his engagement. The next day, however, he made a speech down in Illinois and preambled his talk with the remark that Wisconsin railroads furnished the worst service in the United States. Then for an hour he urged government control of railroads.

BIRD'S-EYE VIEWS

Robert La Follette has already made enough speeches to enable his biographer to run for a time without his personal attention.

One of the disadvantages under which Mexico labors is a superfluity of talents in the line of fervid oratory. Bryan's hint that Clark ought to push Underwood is merely another capsule in the Nebraska's Pharmacy of untaken advice.

"What shall we do with our ex-presidents?" is one of the questions that Roosevelt does not propose to answer personally.

Cold wars are one of the few human discomfiter that nobody thinks he could correct by revising the tariff.

A number of presidential possibilities are basing their hopes on the chance of a landslide in convention.

A lot of people whose names are never in the public prints are cutting up just now.

George W. Perkins says that $10,000,000 are scarce. That depends upon who makes the estimate.

Talk all you like about downward revision of the tariff, but we are for upward revision of the weather with both feet.

Champ Clark says that the presidency is starting out this year to seek the man. It can't complain that the choice is limited.

"Since Prices to Go Up," says the headline in one exchange. "Shall Prices Not to Go Up," says another headline. That make it even.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

Engineer Hill's Resignation.
People who are sincerely interested in the highway problem in New Hampshire will sincerely regret the resignation of Highway Engineer Hill. Under the plan the state is prosecuting state aid in highway matters, the work is very complex. There are transactions with about 200 different towns, comprehending several hundred miles of road. And these transactions cover a considerable variety. The responsibility on the part of the state is lodged with the governor and council, a board that completely changes every two years. The responsibility on the part of the several towns may change every year, and generally changes at short intervals. From its very nature, highway work should be carried on with a view to permanency. As it is, Mr. Hill happens to be the only man familiar with the work that has been done in detail, and possesses information along the line of practical experience that is invaluable in the future prosecution of the work in an economical and efficient way, because the work has necessarily been largely experimental. It is a situation that might have been much improved had the plan of a continuous board in charge in place of the governor and council which has been observed, been adopted. At best, a new man, without the knowledge of the details of what has been done, will come to the work at a time when the plans for a busy season should be fully matured and worked out to the point where they may be taken up with the town authorities as soon as the March elections determine them. It was hoped that the mistake of unpreparedness that was made last year, so that the money that should have been expended in early summer was held until the late months or early fall, would not be repeated this year. The situation again impressively illustrates the wisdom of the plan of having a continuous board in charge of this most expensive, as well as important, work.—Manchester Union.

BIRD RESCUE WORK.

Great as has been the loss of bird life by starvation and cold during the last few weeks, it has had a degree of compensation in that it has disclosed a world of human pity for the feathered denizens of our fields and forests. In many communities the people have taken concerted action to provide food and shelter for the helpless victims of the frosty weather. In Maryland the governor has instructed the state game warden to do everything possible to feed and protect the birds, and has invited the farmers to cooperate with him. In Ohio many societies of sportsmen have taken similar action, and in Indiana, Kentucky and several states farther west hundreds of school children, aided by their parents, have done heroic work to save the birds from starvation.—New York Mail.

WESTERN LAND SWINDLES.

Oregon and Washington will profit little by the inducements which their wealth of resources holds out to settlers if those settlers are to become the prey of unscrupulous promoters. Men who sell land they do not own and issue stock and bonds against it not only rob their immediate victims, but do irretrievable damage to the reputation of the country where they operate. They give color to the accusation prevalent in the East that western promoters are all swindlers. The states of the northwest owe it to investors, settlers and their own good name to adopt measures which will prevent the operations of unscrupulous promoters.—Portland Oregonian.

PEACE TALK AND WAR.

We have heard so much about peace during the last decade and now are in the midst of so many rumors of war that the situation seems anomalous. The question of war between Britain and Germany was scarcely past and the friction between France and Germany yet ended when Italy went to war with Turkey, and now there is persistent rumor of warlike friction between Italy and France. Strange as it is, however, the situation is not unprecedented. There was probably never more talk of universal peace than in the early fifties of the last century when the world's fair at the Crystal Palace, in London, was hailed as the symbol of future enduring peace. There was to be unlimited commerce between nations thereafter instead of war. Little and many of the French philosophers and historians were proclaiming loudly that the era of peace and good will had come to men and that there could not again be a great war between civilized nations.—New York Herald.

Interesting Items Gleaned from Near-by Places

Daniel Gilman on Saturday received from Washington the official commission which made him to postmaster of Exeter for the next four years and probably longer. The document is adorned with the government seal in one corner, and bears the autographs of Postmaster General Hitchcock and the chief magistrate, William H. Taft. Mr. Gilman was notified of his appointment Feb. 6, which has previously been announced, but it did not take effect till Saturday evening, when the affairs at the office were turned over to the good-natured citizen, who comes within twenty-five pounds of equaling the avoirdupois of President Taft.

Keeneborough, grange of Brentwood, Friday evening, observed its twentieth anniversary with appropriate exercises, the members of Gilman grange of Exeter attending and helping out in the program. State officers present were Lecturer Andrew Peck of Meredith, Overseer Wesley Adams of Derry and Charles W. Barker of Exeter, a member of the executive committee. There were five charter members of the grange present, they being Mrs. John Carr, Mrs. Ida Thig, Charles Flanders and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Marshall. Representatives from the granges at Kingston and Epping, besides Exeter, were also present. A late supper was served.

Richard Cleveland, son of former President Grover Cleveland, was one of the characters at an entertainment given at Dunbar hall Saturday evening. The play presented was "In the Good Green Wood."

The scene was a part of the forest of Sherwood, and the characters were Robert O'Donovan of Camden, N. J.; Joseph Walker, Jr., of Concord; Horace Harding of Gating, Panama; Robert Newman of New York; Richard Cleveland of Princeton, N. J.; Sommerfield Baldwin, 3d, of Briar Cliff Manor, N. J.; Benjamin Strong, 2d, of Englewood, N. J.; Chester Harding of Gatun, Panama; Paul DeBoer of Montpelier, Vt., and George Macomber of Somerville, Mass.

Kipling's "The Man Who Dares," was also presented, impersonated by J. C. Webber of the faculty. Sections were also rendered by Masters Baldwin, DeBoer, C. Harding, Newman, Strong and Mr. Webber. "The Victor of Morengo" was presented by Master Baldwin and a serenade by S. C. Wilson of Mexico City. The Dunbar hall boys are the youngest in the academy.

G. W. Hinckley, founder and supervisor of the Good Will farms at Hinckley, Me., addressed the students of Phillips Exeter academy at the meeting of the Christian Fraternity last evening. His address was interesting from many standpoints, and especially from the fact that Good Will is a community itself, having its own railroad station, ticket office, Bell telephone, water system, gymnasium, high and manual training schools, and a Carnegie library. Its object is to help needy boys to become self-supporting men. The lecture was heard by many of the townspeople besides the students. Mr. Hinckley has spoken here before and is always greeted by a large audience. The farms are what Mr. Hinckley made them by his own personal efforts.

The funeral services of Mary B. Sanborn were held yesterday afternoon at the home in High street, conducted by the Rev. Victor M. Naughton, rector of Christ church. Thomas Morris, aged 89, years, died Saturday from typhoid pneumonia after an illness of a week. Mr. Morris was engaged as a teamster at the brickyard of Fred Eno and had been a resident here for about a year. He was born in Malboro, P. Q., and was unmarried.

Sadie Bickford of Kittery, Me., is visiting relatives here.

WANT A CHANGE IN STATE TAX SYSTEM

for a change in the State's Tax System which will be one of the prominent subjects before the constitutional convention next June. Repeated attempts have been made in the legislature to secure a more equitable law for the taxation of intangibles, but have invariably failed because the changes proposed conflicted with the present constitution. Assessors as a rule agree that the strict enforcement of the present tax law will make the taxable bond next to unsalable in New Hampshire.

Secretary John G. Yarwood of the Portsmouth board of assessors is quoted as saying that he believes his city will lose the direct taxation on $200,000 of taxable intangibles through the enforcement of the tax commission rule, and from his quoted statement it would appear that the Portsmouth assessors have been appraising bonds at about one-fifth their actual value for purpose of taxation. The article mentioned states that the $200,000 referred to by him represents "more than $1,000,000" in actual investment, and that the assessors agree with the holders upon the amount of their holdings to be taxed in order that they will not turn their investments into nontaxable securities. If this is true, the Portsmouth assessors may have cause to fear the loss of even the one-fifth of the valuation of the securities in question is abruptly increased fivefold.

The Manchester assessors state that they have no reason to fear the loss of any valuation at this time through the new ruling of the state commission, as they, the Manchester assessors, have always appraised taxable intangibles, where found, at their full value, and therefore there will be no "boosting" of their valuation this year. People who have been contended to do so, will have no cause to change their holdings now, as in Manchester their taxes will not be increased. They believe that Manchester will lose nothing under the new commission ruling, but that the city will gain in taxes on intangibles through the commission ruling that all property owners must make sworn returns of the taxable property they own. Through these sworn inventories they expect to find intangibles which have escaped taxation in the past, when no sworn return was insisted upon.

It has always been the custom of the assessors to send out inventory blanks, and some property owners have returned them as required by law, but out of 7000 sent out last year only 1200 were returned. In such cases the assessors might have taken advantage of the doomage law to increase the taxes of the delinquent fourfold, but this was rarely done. In Manchester, as in other cities and towns the doomage law has been practically dormant for years. Now the state tax commission will insist that it be enforced to the letter, and the assessors of every city and town will be held responsible for its enforcement. This course has been approved by many who believe that an odious law can be got rid of the quickest by a strict enforcement.

Owners of railroad stock are required to make a return of their holdings to the assessors, but are not taxed on the stock because the railroad itself pays the tax and a part of the tax is returned to the city or town where the tax is paid. The holder is required to report his holdings for the reason that the city or town must make request to the state for the return tax due it, and unless the assessors know what stock is held within their jurisdiction they do not know what to demand, and their city is a loser. In cases where persons own national bank stock (which is taxable), but at the same time owe money upon which they paying interest. It is the rule to exempt them from taxation on an amount of their national bank stock equal to the money upon which they are paying interest.

While the law gives us no option in the matter, I do not believe it just to tax the holder of a bond two per cent upon its market value when he receives but four per cent interest on it," said a assessor today. "but we are compelled to levy the tax required by law. I believe it would be far more more just to tax a man on his income. If a man is receiving $5000 a year in interest and dividends on non-taxable or taxable securities I believe he should be taxed full rate on the $5000. With such a system all would fare equally and there would be no unjust burden placed on the investor whose holdings are listed in the taxable class but whose income is less than that the investor in non-taxable securities."

WARWICK AND ELKS TO HOLD A DUAL MEET

Arrangements Made for Meet With Several Events--To Be Annual Event.

Arrangements were perfected on Saturday for a dual meet between the Warwick club and the Elks, which will make it interesting for the members of both organizations. The arrangements were made by a committee consisting of R. I. Sugden, chairman, J. Harold Hobbs and Dr. E. B. Eastman for the Warwick and J. T. Lambert, chairman, A. G. Caswell, W. H. Chick, F. V. Hett, T. F. Meehan for the Elks, who met at the Elks' Home and talked things over.

It was decided to hold a dual meet extending over three nights, March 6, 10 and 20, and to limit the events to bowling, billiards, pool and cards.

The first meet will take place at the Elks' Home when there will be a bowling match between the two with a five man team. The same evening in the Home cribbage and pitch will be played, with four two men team for each game. The games will be followed by a supper.

On March 6th, the meet will be at the Warwick club and there will be pool and billiards, with four men teams in each event with fifty points totals. The cribbage and pitch matches will be concluded at this meet.

On March 20th, the meet will be at the Elks' and then only a bowling match will be played with the same teams, and the totals will be summed up. The idea is to have a trophy of some kind, possibly one which will require winning three times before it becomes the property of the club.

Following the meet on the 20th, a line will be formed and march taken for a hall to be selected, where a banquet will be served.

Chairman Lambert has appointed the following team captains for the Elks: Thomas Lynch, cribbage; see the dark clouds of uncertainty swept away. The attitude of the president and the abandonment of reorganization scheme is the best news the New Hampshire delegation has received in many a day. I know it will be equally good news to the people of Portsmouth.

Dr. M. A. Higgins, pitch; J. M. Mitchell, bowling, and H. P. Mowse, billiards and pool.

The Most Remarkable Suicide.

The most curious suicide in the annals of self destruction occurred at Chiquete, N. B. in the spring of 1890. Before committing the deed the self murderer, who was named W. R. T. Jones, dug his own grave and placed a rough coffin of his own handwork at the bottom. The dirt from the opening was kept from rolling back into place by a trigger to which a string was attached. Everything in readiness, the deliberate Mr. Jones, as subsequent developments revealed, got in the coffin, took a dose of poison, and then pulled the string, burying himself beneath tons of earth. This has been put down as one of the most unique and successful cases of self destruction on record.

Just as Guaranteed.

Jones answered an advertisement and sent a dollar for four pairs of socks. When they arrived Jones looked them over and then wrote the advertiser:

"Socks received. The patterns are vile. I wouldn't be seen on the street with them on."

Back came the answer: "What are you kicking about? Didn't we guarantee that you wouldn't wear them out?"—Judge.

Easy.

Actress—In this new play I am supposed to die of a broken heart. Now, how am I to know how a person with a broken heart behaves? Manager—'I'll tell you what to do. Study the author of the play after he sets your first rehearsal.—Boston Transcript.

Duty.

The reason why people so ill know how to do their duty on great occasions is that they will not be diligent in doing their duty on little occasions.

Illogical.

He—A woman is always illogical. She—How do you make that out? He—She can always remember her birthday, but never her age.—Vanity Life.

Natural Recreation.

The lightning plays, the wind whistles, the thunder rolls, the snow flies, the waves leap, the field smiles, the bad shoots and the river runs.

COAL MINERS WILL MAKE DEMANDS

New York, Feb. 17.—The Roosevelt anthracite coal compact of 1912 will expire in April, after having been twice renewed by the miners and operators. Previous to each renewal demands for increase in wages and other concessions were made by the miners, but they were flatly denied by the operators. Strikes were threatened, but eventually the leaders of the miners yielded.

Now the miners have renewed their demands and again threaten to strike unless they are granted. The demands will be formally laid before the operators at a meeting in this city on Feb. 27.

Admitting that the Roosevelt agreement met industrial conditions prevailing 10 years ago, the miners say it was not intended to be perpetual and that the increased cost of living, since 1902 makes necessary an increase in wages.

They also renew their demand for recognition of their union and that the operators hold out the dues of the members from their pay envelopes.

OBITUARY.

Gustave L. Dixon.

Gustave L. Dixon died on Sunday at his home in South Elliot, from lock-jaw. Mr. Dixon had his feet frozen two weeks ago, and they became infected and lock-jaw developed resulting in his death. He was a son of Stephen and Anna Tetherly Dixon, and a native of Elliot, and 43 years, 3 months, 13 days old. He leaves a brother and two sisters.

Samuel Cottle.

Samuel Cottle, a well known old resident, and for nearly half a century a bridge builder, died on Sunday at his home on Raynes avenue.

He was a native of Kittery and was born May 26, 1832, and after the regular schooling in his native town, he came to this city and learned the ship-building trade at the Haynes yard. In 1860 he went to work on the Portsmouth bridge and he worked on that structure for 48 years through all of its changes, and in that time practically rebuilt the bridge. He also worked on all of the bridges from here to Portland, and on the Dover branch, and for a time went out with the wrecking crew. He married Adaline Trefethen, May 20, 1860, and she survives him. He was a life long and active member of the Methodist church.

George D. Shannon.

Mr. George D. Shannon died on Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Clifford Williams, on Echo street, Kittery. He was a native of Portsmouth and was born Sept. 6, 1823, the son of John and Sarah Shannon. As a youth he followed farming, but later learned the stone mason trade and worked at that practically all of his life. Forty-four years ago he moved to Kittery, and during the Cleveland administration he was foreman teamster at the yard. He leaves besides the daughter at whose home he died, another daughter, Mrs. Edward Wilcox of Kittery, and a brother, Oliver of Springfield.

Samuel Donnell.

Samuel Donnell, aged 92, a well known resident of Peabody was found dead in bed at his residence on Washington street on Saturday. He was born in York, Me., May 8, 1819, and he engaged in the grocery business in this city in 1845 on Congress street, in the store now occupied by Charles W. Greene and the Postal Telegraph company. In 1872 he moved to Peabody and engaged in business. In 1886 during the strike of leather workers in that town he delivered many barrels of flour to the poor people. He leaves two sons, two grandsons and three granddaughters.

LANT blessings, blessings will bloom: Plant hate and hate will grow: You can sow today, tomorrow will bring The blossoms that prove what sort of thing To the seed, the seed you sow.

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

An idea worth passing on is to have a large safety pin fastened to the outside of piece bags and whenever a new piece or pieces are added to it put a sample in the safety pin, so that a glance will tell what pieces are in the bag, much time will be saved in rummaging and disarranging the pieces.

It is a good plan to have silks, woolsens and cotton pieces by themselves. After washing and drying woolen blankets, beat with a carpet beater and they will renew the light and fluffy look that they had when new.

Moisten grease spots with cold water as soon as possible, it keeps the grease from soaking into the wood. Soda sprinkled on to grease spots with a little warm water before scrubbing aids the removing process.

Milk that is scorched need not be thrown away, but if set into cold water in a clean dish, in a short while the scorched taste will disappear.

A good way to warm rolls is to lay them in a clean cloth in a colander and place over steam on the teakettle. Small pieces of toilet soap if kept in a glass jar, can be made into soap jelly by boiling with soft water. This jelly is a nice soap for washing the hair.

Sour milk is a good mild silver cleaner. Place the silver in the milk and let stand for an hour, then wash in hot soapsuds.

If one has a small closet partitioned off in the cellar with a window for ventilation, vegetables and fruits of all kinds may be kept indefinitely. If windows stick and are hard to open, grease the cord with a little oil and pour a little around the window frame.

If a small piece of zinc is burned in stoves and furnaces the soot will not form in the pipes or chimneys. If blood stains get on woolen cloth, rub while fresh with a dry starch, this absorbs the blood without leaving a trace.

STRENGTH for today, is all we need. As there never will be tomorrow. For tomorrow will prove but another day. Each with its measure of sorrow.

SOME USES FOR SOUR CREAM.

There are not many who have never tried it would believe that sour cream makes a delicious white sauce to serve with codfish. Prepare the white sauce just as usual, using the cream instead of the milk.

Sour cream, if not too old, makes a delicious dressing for shredded cabbage. Add a little sugar and vinegar and pour over the cabbage.

Sour cream makes a fine shortening for spice cake and for small cup cakes, to be baked in gem pans.

Sour cream pie is one that is hard to beat. Use the cream, raisins and eggs and bake with two crusts.

Sour cream makes the best shortening for doughnuts, as they do not dry out as soon as when baking power and sweet milk are used.

Sour Cream Dressing.—Beat a half pint of sour cream with an egg beaten until smooth, thick and light. Mix two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, two of vinegar, a teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of sugar and a pinch of mustard and pepper, and add to the cream, beating all the while.

This dressing may be modified to suit different vegetables. Any seasoning may be added that is desired. Onion juice, nutmeg, catsup or any different flavor liked.

Sour cream and nuts with brown sugar boiled together makes a delicious filling.

Sour cream stirred or beaten until butter comes will give a fresh lump of pure, sweet butter, of which many are so fond.

Cookies of all kinds are improved by using sour cream to shorten them. Sour cream added to cream cheese or cottage cheese adds to its palatability.

Sour cream dressing is liked by many used on sliced cucumbers. This is simply sour cream with a little salt, pepper and sugar added.

A Demonstration. "It is wicked to follow the fashion to extremes." "Why, grandma, I am surprised to hear you say so! Isn't it right to walk the straight and narrow way, and that's what you have to do if you wear hobble skirts."

Adrift with Humor

A Good Rule. The story is told of a man, who had great difficulty in spelling words with "al" and "is" in them. One day a friend offered to give him an infallible rule for such cases. "It is a rule," he said, "that in forty-seven years has never failed me."

His friend expressed delight and waited.

The man resumed: "The rule is simply this: Write your 'I' and 'o' exactly alike, and put the dot just between them."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Knew What He Wanted.

"By George! But that chap Kirby is independent. I never before met a man who cared so little for another person's opinion of himself as he."

"What's his latest declaration?" "Why, he walked brazenly into fashionable Broadway haberdashery and asked to be shown some shirts with detached cuffs."—Satire.

Immaterial.

The Boarding House Wlt was executing a note to his landlady for three months' arrears.

"Shall I write this 'sixty days after date,' or 'sixty days after death'?" he inquired, merrily incoherent.

"Since it is your note," retorted the sour old landlady, "I don't know that it would make much difference."

A GOOD FEEDER.

Hiram—Gosh! Cy, how that boy do grow! Cyrus—That's nothin' ter how he do eat!

For Punitive Purposes. Methinks love wears A sickly grin When woman wields The rolling-pin.

Why She Left Them at Home. "Have you any references?" asked the lady of the house. "Yes, ma'am. A lot of 'em." "Then why didn't you bring them with you?" "They're just like my photographs, ma'am. None of 'em does me justice."

Making Payments Easy. Citizen—Say, officer, there's a riot going on in the flat building over there. Officer—That's nothing. It's only some installment men collecting the easy payments on the furniture.

Lost Control. Redd—Did you hear about my neighbor losing control of his automobile? Greene—No, I didn't. "Well, he did. The sheriff's got it now."

Not Up-to-Date. "Atlas was a fool for holding up that world on his own shoulders." "Why was he a fool?" "He should have organized the Globe Trust company to carry it on."

Safe. She (with newspaper)—Another cyclone out west. It has swept dozens of farms clear of everything. He—'I'll bet the mortgage didn't budge an inch."

Simple Remedy. "I cannot think of any way to get this deadlock." "Why not try a key to the situation?"

Hard Luck. "What's your idea of hard luck?" "Having to order more coal before the last lot is paid for."

Benny on the Carp. The German carp is a creature shaped so as to resemble a fish. It can swim in any kind of water, and has one eye on each side of its head. Its food consists of small black bugs and three cornered pieces of boiled potato. You catch a carp by throwing a stone in the water to attract its attention and then letting down a hook baited with a nice piece of garbage. There are people in St. Joe who will pay ten or fifteen cents for a big, fat carp, but as for me I would rather have a Welsh rabbit or a pound of angel cake.—Benny, in the Chicago Tribune.

Mixture of Family Names. This is a good example of what is a common phenomena in the polyglot Balkans: A man named Pavel—that is, Paul—had five sons; one settled in Athens, called himself Pavopoulo, the Greek form of Paulson; the second went to Belgrade and called himself Pavlovich; the third in Sofia called himself Pavloff; the fourth made his home in Bucharest under the name Pavlescu, while the youngest set up in business in Constantinople, assuming the Turkish form of Pavloglu.

War Against "Loan Sharks." Lawyers engaged to assist poor people in New York who had been in the clutches of the "loan sharks," have reported that their clients took an aggregate of $8,299.66 in loans, on which they were to pay $3,744.71 in interest in three months. The lawyers in most cases were able to persuade the loan companies to continue the loans at the rate of 6 per cent annually. The loans had generally been obtained to pay doctors' bills or funeral expenses.

Unpopular Hygiene. Having received a hygienic education, the new partner in the bakery strongly recommended a paper wrapper for every loaf of bread delivered. The old partner demurred. "No good," he said. "People won't stand for it. We tried that once and the paper got so dirty before the bread was ready for delivery that everybody canceled their orders."

Carried Off Dickens Debris. Everybody knew Dickens. He could not dine in public without attracting attention. When he left the dining room, his admirers would descend upon his table and carry off eggshells, orange peels and other things that remained behind, so that they might have memorials of this great and much loved writer.—Munsey's.

Kansas Schoolgirl's Choice of Ways. One day last week two little girls in Parsons were hurrying to school and were afraid they would be tardy. One little girl said: "Let's kneel right down and pray that we won't be tardy." "Oh, no," said the other, "let's hike on to school and pray while we're hiking."—Parsons Sun.

Peculiar Chinese Industries. In Taichow there are some strange industries. One is the raising of the machi, a sort of large pheasant, the tail feathers of which are very valuable, as they are needed for the dress hats of mandarins. Timber is very plentiful in this district and is sent away by raft to all parts.

Sure Enough. The teacher had been telling the class about the rhinoceros family. "Now, name some things," said she, "that are very dangerous to get near to, and that have horns." "Automobiles!" replied little Jennie Jones, promptly.—Unidentified.

Courage and Hope. The men whom I have seen succeed best in life have been cheerful and hopeful men, who went about their business with a smile on their faces, and took the changes of this mortal life like men, facing rough and smooth alike as it came.—Charles Kingsley.

Immortalized. Brown—That's the cuckoo from a clock I used to have. I have the highest respect and admiration for it, because it is the only thing that ever dared to butt in while my wife was talking!—Puck.

Only True Happiness. Some men are born happy and others have happiness occasionally thrust upon them, but the only happiness that amounts to much in the long run is that which one achieves.—The Christian Register.

Possible to Be Too Busy. A certain business man was so very busy that he could not see anybody who called. Among 'em was a good customer, who went elsewhere.—John A. Howland.

This Should Be Considered. Nobody has as yet succeeded in suggesting a way in which boys who become dissatisfied with their fathers may work the recall.

Natural Trait. The people who are weighed in the balance and found wanting are apt to complain that the scales are out of order.

Few Hesitate. Hardly a man puts off until tomorrow the foolish thing he wishes to do today.

COMPLAINTS MADE AGAINST LOCAL GROCERYMEN

The State Board of Health has filed complaints against several different grocerymen here. The charges are all for violation of the pure food laws of this State. The violations consisted in the sale of adulterated lemon extract, adulterated checkerberry essence, adulterated extract of vanilla and adulterated lime juice. The various adulterated articles were purchased by State Inspector Purington from the seven dealers while the inspector was in this city last fall, but the complaints have not been made until the present time because the analysis of the different articles had not been completed by the State chemist.

UNDERMINING THE LIFE SAVING SERVICE.

The action of officials of the treasury department is recommending that the items of appropriation for salaries of district superintendents in the Life Saving Service be stricken from the sundry civil appropriation bill should receive wide publicity, for it menaces the efficiency and even the existence of an organization the personnel of which has made a splendid record for faithful, self-sacrifice and heroism. This move is the latest step in the systematic attempt on the part of the revenue cutter interests to absorb the Life Saving Service. The positions of district superintendents in the latter service are looked upon with covetous eyes by the revenue cutter officers, as they carry assignments for shore duty. In the New Jersey district a revenue cutter officer has been made superintendent over the heads of the regular men in the Life Saving Service. In the California district similar action was taken, but protests from the congressmen of that state induced the officers to restore the former superintendent to his place. Now the effort is made to take over the other twelve positions for the Revenue Cutter Service by the simple expedient of striking the salary appropriations for the Life Saving superintendents from the appropriations bill. In short, the scheme is to legislate the superintendents out of office by cutting off their pay in order to make shore berths for revenue cutter officers.

This procedure can hardly be characterized by any milder term than outrageous. The district superintendents are in many cases old men who have spent a lifetime in the service and have won honorable recognition for heroic exploits in rescue work. They certainly deserve better treatment at the hands of the Treasury Department officials than to be turned adrift in this summary manner. If they are to be displaced at all they should at least be retired on pension.

Apart from the gross injustice of this course it would injure seriously the efficiency of the Life Saving Service. This revenue cutter officers are not especially fitted by experience to direct the work of the life saving stations. The revenue cutter men are offshore boatmen—the life-savers must be clever at inshore boat work and the one does not imply the other. The life-saving superintendents should be men who have learned by long acquaintance with their marine territory all its peculiarities and all the eccentricities of winds and tides with which the life-saver is called upon to

SCRATCHING IS DANGEROUS

People afflicted with eczema and other skin troubles try to get relief by scratching, which not only aggravates the trouble, but also increases the risk of infection. Apply a little Cadum, and the itching will stop. Cadum is soothing and healing to an inflamed, irritated or diseased skin. It is antiseptic, and when applied to a scratch, sore or wound, prevents infection from disease germs. It acts quickly upon eczema, pimples, sores, ulcers, rash, rough skin, scab sores, chafings, itching piles, etc. Of drug stores, 10c & 25c per box.

One in his day's work. The superintendents who have come up from the ranks have mastered these essential details more thoroughly than is possible for officers detached from the Revenue Cutter Service. However, if they may be in other respects. Moreover the transfer of these higher life-saving positions to the Revenue Cutter Service would deprive the men in the Life Saving Service of adequate opportunities for promotion. It would take away the big prizes of this calling. The service would be made proportionately less attractive to energetic and ambitious men and those its personnel would surely deteriorate. Thus, the proposed change would not only be most unfair to the men now in the Life Saving Service, but would also cripple the efficiency of the service in the future.

The influence of the revenue cutter interests has also been thrown against the proposal to provide retirement pensions for the men in the Life Saving Service. A bill creating a retirement list for this service was smothered in committee at the last session of Congress presumably through this influence. The theory of the revenue cutter people seems to be that if pensions are withheld from the life savers they will be ready to submit to absorption in the Revenue Cutter Service. At present the Military and Naval Revenue Cutter Service all have pension systems. The claim of the Life Saving Service to the granting of retirement pensions is certainly as strong as that of these other departments that are already pensioned. Retirement pensions in the army and navy are justified as "the acknowledgement by the Government of a moral obligation on account of past meritorious service, and a compensation for a loss of earning capacity incurred through injury, disease or the devotion of the productive years of life to performance of duty." Pensions were originally limited to the military and naval branches of the Government service on account of the especially hazardous nature of the employment. The men in the Life Saving Service are as clearly entitled to pensions on this ground as the men in the army and navy. Their occupation is peculiarly arduous and perilous; involves an unusual degree of hardship and hazard. Secretary MacVeagh in a letter to the Committee of Congress urging the passage of the pension bill for life savers truly said: "Relative to the dangerous nature of the service, it may be said that the risk of death, injury and disease incurred by the life saver is not less than that of the soldier or naval sailor. If his service is less dangerous in time of war, it is much more so in time of peace, which is the generally prevailing condition that has been interrupted but four times in our national history. Extra hazard, therefore, is incurred by the soldier and naval sailor only at intervals of many years, while the peril of the life saver is entered with the certainty of exposure to extraordinary danger, while the vast majority of those who enlist in the army or navy do so with scarcely a prospect of incurring the dangers of war service."

The proposal to establish a retirement list for the Life Service similar to that already provided for the Military, Naval and Revenue Cutter service is again before Congress at this session in the form of a bill introduced by Congressman Harris of this state. This bill should be passed and the slightest attempt to legislate the life saving superintendents out of the service should be unmasked and defeated. The issue involved is one of simple justice and fair play.—Boston Transcript.

Interesting to Astronomers.

No way has been yet found in which the sun's corona with its unknown gases may be properly studied except during a total eclipse. The wonderful halo that the sun wears is one of the most interesting objects in the heavens to astronomers, and it is important to know all that can be known about these strange lights that shoot out millions of miles beyond the sun.

As It Sounded to Him.

A teacher in Kansas City, Kan., was having her class quote the Twenty-third Psalm. When the last verse was reached, "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life," etc., a little boy near by was heard to say: "Surely good Mr. Murphy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

Name Saved Him.

A man brought before the court in Bliddeford, Me., on a charge of vagrancy, when asked by the judge to give his name, answered, "David Gohome." The judge contracted his brows. "Your last name again?" he asked. "Gohome," was the reply. "All right, go ahead," said the judge, "that's a new one on me."

Boy's Bright Idea.

While teaching a class in the second grade, I once asked a little boy to tell what he could about the appearance of an Indian. After reciting at some length, he finished with the following statement: "He shaves, all the hair off his head except a little bit on top, which is called the Happy Hunting Ground."

Money Concealed in Petticoat.

Mrs. Herman Nicolay of Norwich heard a rustling in one of her petticoats. She ripped it open and found seven certificates of deposit on different banks amounting to $3,700. The petticoat had been the property of the woman's mother-in-law.

Wise Business Move.

Riggs—"Singular, isn't it, that neither of your stenographers wants a vacation this year?" Griggs—"No; it's easily explained. I recently took a good-looking young man into the office and neither of the girls is willing to go away and leave the field to the other one."—Roseleaf.

Serious Complication.

"I know how to sympathize with you, Mrs. Polhemus," said Mrs. Layling. "My left eye was affected once just as yours is and I had awful time with it. The doctor said the trouble was that the subjunctive was granulated."

Nature Anticipates Art.

"The remains of that mastodon," said the scientist in the museum, "were found buried in an iceberg." "H'm," responded the man from Chicago, "that cold storage idea isn't so new after all."

Who Said We Couldn't?

Why can't we appreciate the more generous lines of the elderly woman's figure fully as much as the immature proportions of the girl? Why can't we see that one is really as beautiful as the other?—Edna K. Wooley.

Wash All Dishes Under Table.

A doctor's wife just home in Paris from Annam, where she was attached to a branch of the Pasteur Institute relates that servants in that country have the curious habit of washing all dishes under the table, never on top.

Of Lord Tennyson's Brother.

The "high-lunks of the high-nosed" (to use another phrase of his) angered him, as did all persons "who go about with well-cut trousers and ill-arranged heads."—Athenaeum.

Iron Only Found in Ore.

Iron ores are chiefly oxides, and native iron is almost unknown except in the meteorites occasionally picked up.

LARK OF BRITISH DUCHESS

Her Grace of Sutherland Danced at London Masked Ball in Male Attire.

A carefully concealed sensation of the brilliant "Arabian Nights Ball," given at Covent Garden, came to light in London when it was learned that among the glittering throng of oriental dancers was her grace the duchess of Sutherland in male attire—that of a maharajah. The incident was deemed so serious that a family concave was called at Stafford house, the magnificent Sutherland residence, in St. James street.

But it was not the duke who caused the trouble, but the earl of Rosslyn, the countess' brother, who ordered his sister to "give an account of herself." The duchess took umbrage at this style of censor and citing his somewhat lurid career bade him defiance. "I would like to know," she is reported to have said, "who appointed you as censor of this family's morals; so don't talk rot."

A cross-examination elicited from the duchess the fact that while she did wear a man's clothes at the ball and also painted her face to a swarthy hue to resemble the eastern potentate, her trousers were very baggy and a cloak enveloped her figure.

So at the conclusion of the inquisition the duchess figured that the earl of Rosslyn owed her an apology. "You see it was all perfectly innocent," she said, "and done just for a lark. You really should get down on your knees to me for stirring up such a fuss."

YEARLY PAPER OF ALASKA

Publication of the Eskimo Bulletin is Evidence of Progress of Twenty Years.

In the bad old days the masters of the whaling vessels sailing from San Francisco to the far north used to give the Alaskan Eskimos raw "fire water" in order to secure the valuable furs they had obtained during the long arctic winter. Little they dreamed that these fierce children of the north would one day be so advanced as to print their own newspaper, a writer in the Wide World exclaims. After the terrible slaughter by the whalers of the alcohol-frenzied natives of Cape Prince of Wales, in Bering Strait, it was a rather ticklish job for a white man to start a Bible class. Still, H. A. Thornton attempted it, but he was shot dead by a boy of fourteen, who was killed in his turn by his own kinsman. This affair happened in 1890. Two years after W. T. Lopp appeared on the scene with his wife. They settled at Cape Prince of Wales, and year after year, until 1903, they taught humanity to the Eskimos. The reindeer was introduced from Siberia, and Mr. Lopp got his pupils to learn to rear the herds. He also taught them boat building, carpentering, etc., and to put a final touch to his valuable work, he had a small press brought from the states, and it was not long after that his pupils were able to compose and print their own paper. This is probably the only yearly newspaper in the world—the Eskimo Bulletin.

Old Volume Sold.

Bunyan's copy of Foxe's "Book of Martyrs" was offered at auction at Messrs. Sotheby's rooms in London recently. There were only two bidders and the book was finally bought in at $3,000. The vendors were the trustees of the Bedford Literary Institute. The book was to have been sold in London last May, the institute being in financial difficulties. It was expected to realize from $40,000 to $50,000. At the last moment, however, the attorney general intervened in order to ascertain whether the trustees were empowered with the right to sell the book, and it was withdrawn from the sale. After investigation the attorney general came to the conclusion that the sale could not be withdrawn, and consequently the book came under the hammer. A first edition of Walton's "Complete Angler," published in 1653 at 35 cents, fetched $3,750.

Drainage of the Zuyder Zee.

A great project is again before the people of Holland—the draining of the Zuyder Zee. The sea, which, as every one knows, is at the north of Holland and covers an area of 50,000 hectares, a hecatene being practically two acres and a half. Just half a century ago a scheme to drain the southern portion of the sea was first mooted and although it received considerable support, the opposition was greater, but now an association has been formed and a bill will be introduced into the chamber. The promoters see that with an increased population means must be taken to enlarge the country and this reclamation of the sea is suggested as capable of accomplishment. If the sea is conquered there are several lakes which can be dealt with later.

Rate Schedule Lacking.

It was the day before Christmas in one of the big railroad offices, says the San Francisco Call. "They were talking about the good old days when they were all children and there was no interstate commerce commission." "Well," observed the optimist, "I guess old Santa will come around as usual." "Nope," replied the grouch. "Don't look for him this year."

Why not?

"Why not?" asked the optimist. "Well," came the answer, "but the new law he's a common carrier, and the old man hasn't filed his rate schedule."

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO EMPLOYEES AT THE NAVY YARD

The Herald Was in the Flight and Won.

The Herald's work for the navy yard has and will be going on night and day. The fact that the scheme to discontinue a station at this port has been given up, is what this paper worked for and expected. The Herald left nothing undone that would aid to check this proposed project of the army and navy board. This paper realized that it meant a fight to even attempt to reduce the Portsmouth yard and it also realized that it meant a stiff fight to go against those who have been filled with recommendations to injure it. The Herald is the "People's Paper" and can always be found on the firing line when the interest of the old city by the sea is involved. The fight is by no means at an end and the Herald will say that it has only begun the battle for the biggest and best naval station of America. This paper is not given to much loud noise from its own horn, but on the occasion it is certainly entitled to let loose with a good strong blow.

Vessel Movements.

Grand Army Gets Relics.

A shipment of sixty large cannon balls which were used in the Civil War are being shipped to the Grand Army Post at Red Lake Falls in honor for decorative purposes.

Sending Them Back Here.

A report has it that the first hitch in the recently established detention camp for court martialled men at Port Royal, is the numerous runaways. This has resulted in the return to the plan of sending prisoners to this station which had hitherto been abandoned for the past six months. The navy department brought out these disciplinary barracks to give the men, convicted of minor offences a chance to make good and be restored to duty with a clean record. If they don't make good it's up to them.

In sending them here they are put to work of different nature and a closer watch is maintained.

Reported Today.

Naval Constructor Guy A. Bissett, who relieves constructor R. W. Ryden in the hull department reported for duty today.

Pete Back on Deck.

CITY NEWS

Three employees of the Portsmouth Beef company are trying to figure how they can square themselves with their friends on that fish feed. Before starting for Great Bay Sunday to break up all the hungry eels in that body of water, they sent out invites, to several of their friends for a great spread of the snake like water animal, and of course the gang responded. There was no feed for the reason that the catch included only two eels and one Great Bay herring. This catch was accomplished between daylight and dark and there appears to be a question of wrong bait. The wise ones of the fishing party recommends that in the future, no menu be arranged or invites sent out until the feed is sizzling in the frying pan.

Evidently the navy department want to save some money in condemned material. The arrival of expert Jacobson at the navy yard will lead to a change in the disposition of junk. It is understood that in the future, much of the metal which has been cast aside will be used by the government and that which is to be sold, will have to go for more money than has been offered by junk dealers in the past. Mr. Jacobson has been at Boston yard personally looking into this matter. He is said to have plenty of authority in the matter and what he says goes. He was formerly connected with the purchasing department of the Erie railroad.

The bartender in a business block who one evening, recently, stepped by the back door of his saloon, got a surprise when a large costly overcoat dropped from the window of a hall overhead and staggered him as it landed on his head. He picked it up and called on the police to investigate.

It later developed that the garment was stolen from a dressing room and the plan to get away with it was to have someone on the ground to get it. The second party was not on the job in this, therefore the overcoat was snatched in the end.

A distinguished visitor to this city for the past few days is Andrew J. Hughes, President of the Cooper International Union of America.

Mr. Hughes is a Portsmouth boy and one of the old school who always delight in getting back to the old town and meeting the associates of his younger days. He has filled the position of official head of the great body of mechanics for the past seven years, working early and late from coast to coast and in the Dominion of Canada. He has established a record in the settlement of labor matters which is a credit to himself and the organization, which he represents. His old friends and acquaintances gave him a warm welcome in the old town.
